HARD YEAR FOR MAJOR UMPIRES

Experience Difficulty in Keeping Players Under Control

New York, July 11.—Are the umpires in the American and National leagues losing their control over the players on the ball field? Recent developments in the big yard indicate that such may be the case.

Time was, not so very long ago, when the word of the umpire was regarded as law. But not so this season. It is not to be inferred that major league baseball today is marked by the rowdism that characterized the game fifteen or twenty years ago. But if the rough stuff that is being pulled now is not checked by the powers that be, the spectators may soon be treated to a revival of the old "knock-down-and-drag-out" stunts of yore.

Instances of Breaks.
No one connected with baseball seems able to give an adequate explanation of the unusual strife that has prevailed on the diamond this season. And everyone appears equally at a loss to suggest a remedy. The system of fining a player appears to have little or no effect. Mr. Player comes right back for more spouting and more fines. And the umpires are not slow in slapping on a fine, either.

In a game at St. Louis the other day the reserve players on the Pittsburgh bench roasted Umpire Klem to a turn. Klem warned them several times. When they persisted in the demonstration he fined nine of them $10 each and ordered them from the grounds.

Several days before the incident in St. Louis five of the Cincinnati Reds and one member of the Cubs were chased by the umpire in a game at Chicago. And to add to the excitement of the Chicago affair a fist fight was started between a Cub and a Red, but fortunately the mixup was stopped before serious damage was done.

Discipline Needed.
Another example of the strenuous manner in which our national game is being played in 1914 occurred recently in Washington. It was nothing more or less than a forfeited game. Baseball fans had forgotten that there ever was such a thing as a forfeited game in big league circles, but they were wised up a bit by the action of the Washington Senators in refusing to play the Athletics and forfeiting the game.

Some critics are inclined to lay all of the blame for this present-day rough stuff to incompetent umpiring, but this is illogical. The umpires in both the American and National leagues are capable baseball officials.

Moreover, their work this season is fully up to the standard of previous years. The most of the arbiters are veterans in the business and if they were backed up by the moguls as they should be, then rowdism in the big yard would be out of fashion in jig time.

Unless the club owners and managers get busy enforcing the discipline, another year may witness the good old game being played with Company X of the National Guard on hand ready to suppress the riots.

BRITISH NOW ARE AFTER UNCLE SAM'S CUE CHAMPIONSHIP.

London, July 11.—Another international world's championship between Great Britain and the United States finally has been arranged, and Melbourne, Inman, holder of the British billiard championship, will leave today on the Aquitania to play Willie Hoppe for the international billiard championship.

"Of course, I am practicing the game," he said. "At the ordinary duffers game of billiards I found myself in good enough form to make an occasional run of 1,000 or 1,500, but this was more in the nature of exercise and was, of course, very different from the 15.8 ball line."

He or no effect. Mr. Player comes right back for more spouting and more fines. And the umpires are not slow in slapping on a fine, either.

ENTER BERLIN MEET.

Two American Athletes to Participate in Games.

London, July 11.—The American athletes, Homer Baker, who won at Stamford Bridge, and Harry Smith, with Trainer Jack Kelly, have left for Berlin, where they are entered in the German track meet on July 12.

The two athletes will also go to Stockholm to compete in the Swedish meet on July 19, and after spending a few weeks there will go to France, where they will compete in the French national meet at Lyons.

BIG TRADE REPORTED BETWEEN TWO TEAMS

Cincinnati, O., July 11.—It was announced by officials of the Cincinnati club today that a sensational deal of four men for four men was as good as completed, that the four new Reds would don Cincinnati uniforms Saturday and the four ex-Reds would report to their new pastures the same day.

As only one club, New York, can supply the four men needed here or use the four to be exchanged, it is taken for granted that Murray, Snodgrass, Merkle and a Giant infielder are to be traded for Hobbiltsell, Bates, Niehoff, a pitcher, and the Reds' claim on the services of Marsans.

BALLOON RACE STARTS TODAY

Contest to Pick U. S. Entries in International Event

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—The National Balloon Race which is to start from here this afternoon is the annual elimination contest to select entrants for the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup—which will start from Kansas City next October. Each nation that takes part in the international race is entitled to three entrants. One of the American entrants is R. H. Upson, who won the last international race, which was held in Paris. The two balloonsists who make the greatest distance—in an air line—in the race starting today will be qualified for the international race of this year.

Following are the balloonsists who have entered for the elimination race: Warren Rason, Brookville, O.; balloon "Hoosier".

R. A. D. Preston, Akron, O.; balloon "Goodyear".

Arthur T. Atherholt, Philadelphia. Paul J. McCallough, St. Louis; balloon "Uncle Sam".

William M. Assmann, St. Louis; balloon "Miss Sofia".

John Berry, St. Louis; balloon, "Aero Club of St. Louis".

E. S. Cole, St. Louis.

Jerome Kingsbury, New York.

John Watts, Kansas City.

Roy F. Donaldson, Springfield, Ill.

H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis.

All the balloons entered in the race have a capacity of 80,000 cubic feet. Many of the aeronauts have thrilling records. Captain Preston was able to R. H. Upson in the last international race, and their balloon won the contest over seventeen competitors, staying in the air forty-three hours.

Captain Atherholt has made over 100 balloon flights. His first long flight was in 1907 from St. Louis when with Major Henry B. Hersey he took part in the international race and landed in Canada, after crossing the Great Lakes. In the international race that started from Stuttgart, Germany, in 1912, he flew the lengths of Germany and Russia and landed in the Baltic region near St. Petersburg. On landing he was arrested by the Russian authorities as a German spy.

Aeronaut When He Was 17.
William E. Assmann of St. Louis has been an aeronaut since he was seven years old. On July 14, 1893, his balloon fell twenty thousand feet at night into Lake Nipissing, Canada.

Assmann was in the water all night, and was rescued by two Indians. In a balloon he has crossed the Great Lakes three times. Captain Assmann will have no aide in the flight this afternoon, as his balloon is not in good condition. The balloon "Million Population Club" in which he intended to fly was lost in the recent balloon race that started from Portland, Ore.

Captain John Berry, who flew in the "Million Population Club" in the Portland race, started his aeronautic career in 1902 when he was fourteen years old. In July, 1912, in the national races from Kansas City, Berry rode a thunderstorm for twelve hours. The basket filled with water waist-deep. As aids in the race today, Berry will have Albert Von Hoffman, Jr., who graduated this spring from the St. Louis high schools and is barely 16 years old. They will fly in the "Aero Club of St. Louis"—the same balloon in which Berry traveled in the international race of 1912 when he fell into the Baltic Sea.

E. S. Cole, who was granted a pilot's license in 1911, holds the distance record for a flight in a 40,000 cubic-foot capacity balloon. In such a balloon he flew from Topeka, Kan., to Tangier, Okla., a distance of 375 miles.

In six consecutive games against the Giants "Rabbit" Marsans, shortstop of the Boston Braves, had 46 chances and accepted 42 of them. Accepting a fraction over 3 chances a game is some shortstopping.

Ever since the Naps whalloped the stuffing out of the Senators in the series at Cleveland, the Griffiths have bumped into all sorts of trouble.

HERZOG'S RADICAL VIEWS AS TO THE MANAGING OF A TEAM

When you get the other guy down, choke him to death. I believe in fighting. I tell my players to pick out an opponent and "ride" him throughout the game.

I can't stand for the man who winces; I fight my own players as hard as I do the enemy.

I am the sorest loser in the world; expect my players to be the same.

I want my men to think they're great, just as I think I'm a real-thing manager.

I would rather win a game with three pitchers than with one.

Baseball with me begins when I go to the clubhouse before a game and ends when I leave it afterwards.

RITCHIE READY TO BACK SELF FOR $25,000.

London, July 11.—Willie Ritchie, still of the belief that the worst he should have received in his fight here with Freddie Welsh was a draw, is going to make a tour of Paris and Berlin and then return to his native land to continue his ring career against such opponents as the promoters offer. In the hope that he will fight his way into another match with the new champion.

The American intimated he will don the gloves in his home town in September and that Charlie White likely will be his opponent. This unless he can get another chance to regain his title. Willie is still downcast over his defeat. He says he is ready to fight Welsh again and will bet upwards to $25,000, but the match must be fought in America. "No more of those English referees, and that isn't costing any suspicion on Eugene Corri's honesty," said Ritchie today.

"I know Corri wouldn't do a wrong thing for all the money in the world, but his judgment of an American's fighting ability and what constitutes points in the boxing game are far from right."

Just what Welsh will do isn't settled as yet, but there is a strong inclination on his part to play the music halls of this side of the continent to the last. It is likely he won't fight again for months.

The show was a loser. It drew $21,000. Fifteen thousand dollars went to Ritchie for fighting and $18,000 for his rights of the moving pictures. These pictures, the Americans here claim, show clearly that Ritchie should have at least won a draw verdict.

Pitcher Johnny Enzman, who goes from the Newark club to the Brooklyn Superbas, has been one of the top-notch fingers in the international league for the last two years.
